Subject: Raising concerns about proposed changes on immigrants

Respected Sir/ Mam

I have concern about

The proposed changes to the essential skills visa

I want to provide feedback on behalf of me and all the migrant workers working in this country, although it looks as if this statement is overwhelming but its not. Anyhow I am on a post study work visa and I would certainly be applying for essential work visa next year. I live with a family of 5. So I will Include them in this submission.

s 9(2)(g)(i), s 9(2)(a)

I came to this country in 2015 with student visa in the hopes of studying and looking forward to have a new experience and learn what this country has to offer. Which was indeed the best thing ever happened to me. I started to love this country and started looking for a job and found one as a part time at The Cheesecake Shop and with the same company i applied for my post study visa and I was advised about the immigration rules and regulations. But I always thought same rules will apply for me since those rules were promised and explained to me when i arrived in this country which was fair. I have invested so much in this country and helped in growing the economy but now it feels as if whatever is happening is unrealistic and unfair and should be addressed by our officials and we understand that every now and then rules should be changed for the betterment of the country which is good but the rules should be for people who will come into this country and they should be explained that you have come with these rules in this country which is fair for them but it cannot be issued on people who have been in this country for such a long time and have become part of this country and community.

All of us are on work visas and we all working towards our desired goals and if a whole family goes home after 7 or 8 years then they would be exhausted, depressed and would be under the pressure of starting all over again which is unreasonable and unacceptable.

Whereas s 9(2)(a) came to this country in 2008 and if you tell him that you have been asked to leave this country I don't know what to say or how to react.

I can explain in detail about every individual if asked.

Please Its a humble request that we all are becoming victim of this new policy. These rules should not be applied for the ones who are already here.

Feel free to contact me for more information.

Kind Regards
